ITG Release of new Video Conferencing (VTC) website www.vtc-telepresence.com

FALLS CHURCH, VA – February 7, 2013 – ITG a provider of Video Conferencing products and related services recently released its newest website, www.vtc-telepresence.com. Intended as a resource portal for Government and Industry alike, visitors have access to technical data sheets and related information for all principal manufacturers of Video Conferencing technologies.

“It is our goal to provide all the know-how available and required to enable the customer to make the best possible, informed decision regarding their Telepresence needs” says Douglas Miller, ITG’s VTC Product and Services Expert. “This is a unique feature of our website; offering all competing solutions under one roof.”

ITG is an approved reseller of industry leading Video Conferencing products, including Cisco/Tandberg, Polycom and Lifesize. ITG works with customers to provide a VTC solution tailored to their specific needs and technical requirements. Jason Kellogg and Dustin Asbury who are responsible for content selection, design and user community adoption, said “This is a rapidly evolving marketplace, with new products and services emerging nearly, daily. Our focus was and remains the availability of current industry information coupled with up to date value added content”. Michael Angelakis, ITG President and CEO added, “The release of this Video Conferencing Technologies web facility, which signifies our close business relationships with the product manufacturers, represents the realization of one more corporate plan objective and a long term company aspiration.”

The new website delivers an overview of a variety of VTC products along with their associated services; selection, room design, installation, training, maintenance and repair. Product descriptions and data sheets for each manufacturer are housed under one website to facilitate an easy comparison of all available solutions.

“In response to the accelerating world-wide demand for Video Conferencing systems, ITG has released www.vtc-telepresence.com to expand its global market reach”, says Kellogg and Asbury. “We think the website will be an invaluable tool to help current and future customers make more informed decisions in an ever expanding market.”
